To Whom It May Concern:

I wholeheartedly recommend Joel Feldman's distracted driving program to be viewed by high school students. More information can be obtained by going to EndDD.org. We were fortunate to have Joel out to our school to present his program. It is very well done. It consists of sobering statistics, interesting videos, and reaches the students without being preachy or condescending. Several students approached me after the program and commented how good it was and how much it had an impact on their driving.

I also sent our Health, Physical Education and Driver Education curriculum specialist an email encouraging her to get the word out within our school system of how good this program is. I am hoping more driver educators will reach out to Joel and have him come to their schools as well. I am hoping to have Joel out to our school next year.
