

We were fortunate to have Joel Feldman come and speak to our students in Feb. 2022.

Although his story is tragic, his message was delivered in a way that left the students feeling empowered rather than sad. His presentation was engaging, fast paced and student centered. He interacted with the audience, encouraged participation and delivered important information in a way that hit home to the students. He didn't just spew facts and numbers, but rather relayed details with videos and questions to the audience.

Joel was sensitive to the student's feelings, prefacing video content in a way that allowed students to feel comfortable with what they were watching.

It was a highly successful assembly, and the students are still wearing the bracelets he handed out. I would highly recommend Joel Feldman to any population that is driving or may drive!

Thank you.
