

To whom it may concern,

Malvern Preparatory School had the privilege of bringing Joel Feldman onto campus in May of the 2021-22 academic year to deliver a well constructed, conscientious, and thought-provoking presentation on the dangers of distracted driving to our sophomore class of 122 students. By the time they begin their junior year, approximately 60% of our student body have acquired their license, with close to 90% having at least a learner's permit. We were thrilled to offer such a timely learning opportunity to our students, and Mr. Feldman's presentation and professionalism did not disappoint. His slideshow was extremely eye-opening, and kept our students engaged from start to finish. As an educator, I can attest to the difficulties sometimes associated with holding the attention of teenagers during the age of smartphones, particularly adolescent males. Joel's talking points were presented at their level, and with the perfect balance of tone and verbiage to keep our students focused.

I am highly confident that Mr. Feldman's presentation will have a significant impact on our students' safety moving forward. While the feedback from our students was very positive, the reception of their parents was even greater. They were so grateful that their sons received such valuable information at such an important time in their lives. I would highly recommend Joel's services and incredible knowledge base to any and all schools. His background information, easy-going nature, and personal connection to this issue make him an undeniable expert in this field. Please feel free to contact me via email at mmcdonald@malvernprep.org if I can answer any questions or better convince you that Joel would be beneficial to your students.

Warmly,
