

At Roanoke County Public Schools, the safety of our students is our primary concern, both within the school premises and beyond. Recognizing that driving accidents are the leading cause of fatalities among teenagers, we are committed to equipping our students with the knowledge and tools necessary to prevent distracted driving behaviors. Mr. Kevin Burcham, our Supervisor of Health and Physical Education, aptly expressed our collective concern and dedication to this cause.

Mr. Feldman was invited to speak to our 10th and 11th-grade students at Glenvar High School, and his presentation left an indelible impact on our students and faculty alike. Through a combination of personal experiences, compelling data, and real-life examples, Mr. Feldman effectively conveyed the grave dangers associated with distracted driving. His interactive approach, coupled with his clear and direct communication style, resonated with our students, ensuring active engagement throughout the presentation.

Moreover, Mr. Feldman's holistic approach to the subject matter offered our students a comprehensive understanding of the issue, empowering them to make informed decisions and take proactive measures to prevent distracted driving incidents. The feedback from our students was overwhelmingly positive, with many expressing a desire for younger students to benefit from Mr. Feldman's powerful message as they begin their driving journey.

In conclusion, I wholeheartedly endorse Mr. Joel Feldman as an exemplary speaker and advocate for promoting safe driving practices. His passion, personal experience, and ability to connect with audiences make him an invaluable asset in our collective efforts to create safer roads and communities. I highly recommend Mr. Feldman to any organization or institution seeking to educate and inspire individuals on the critical importance of avoiding distracted driving behaviors.
