

Distracted driving is selfish and dangerous. It puts coworkers, families, and our community at risk. More than 10,000 people are killed each year in the U.S. by distracted driving. Distracted driving is not consistent with my values, nor is it consistent with the values of my workplace.

By pledging to drive without distraction, we can create a culture of safety that extends beyond our workplace.

Accordingly, I promise to:

- Use the “Do Not Disturb” setting on my phone while driving.
- Drive without distraction and not look at my phone while driving.
- Respect my coworkers, clients, and community by driving with my full attention.
- Model safe driving for my family, friends, and co-workers.
- Encourage others to drive distraction-free and lead by example.
